What gives the foam
such a load capacity?
The high elasticity – thanks to the open cell structure.

Special load capacity thanks to elasticity

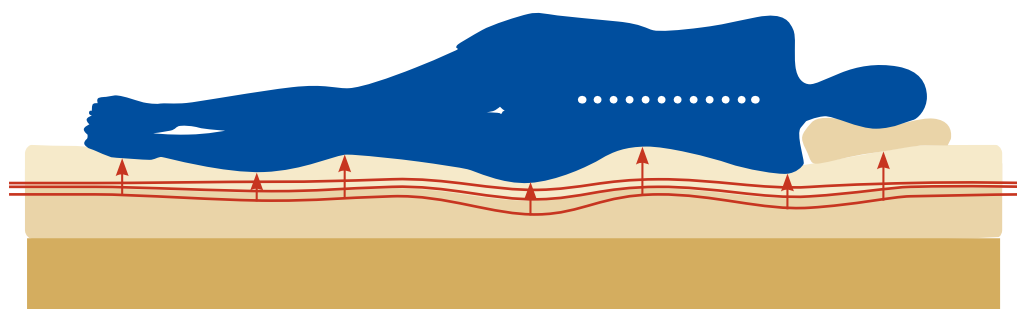

High elasticity with a particularly open cell structure: EUCASELECT® foams provide an exceptional load capacity. Consequently, EUCASELECT® foams are particularly good as supporting mattresses or foam cores for full core mattresses.

There is also a high degree of hysteresis due to the high elasticity from EUCASELECT®. The body experiences an excellent freedom of movement at a low expenditure of energy. Our EUCASELECT® foams are therefore extremely comfortable.

Your customers receive precise relaxation

Each body needs to relax and recuperate. With EUCASELECT®, your customers receive products that skilfully respond to the different pressure points of the body. The reason for this is the excellent point elasticity: Each individual receives exactly the right support – for a consistently good night's sleep.

Low expenditure of energy for your customers thanks to the remarkable hysteresis: Your customers can rely on free movement during sleep with all products from EUCASELECT®. EUCASELECT® – Your foam of choice.

Accurate support of the body due to high elasticity
